Community Planning Workshop #4

Come and discuss the initial study findings

The New York Metropolitan Transportation Council (NYMTC) thanks you for your enthusiastic help envisioning changes and improvements within the Route 59 transportation corridor. Community Planning Workshop #4 will share initial findings and recommendations for Route 59 roadway improvements and land-use based on input submitted at previous workshops, during the public comment period, and through extensive community outreach. This upcoming workshop will give you a chance to explore the results of our first three Community Planning Workshops, share comments, and ask questions about the final Route 59 Area Transportation & Land Use Study.

After this final September 17th workshop, a total of four community planning workshops will have been held, and several pop-up events will have been attended across the study area, all with the intent of securing community input to guide the final study report. Each workshop has built upon your input to help refine ideas that you think will improve the corridor. In addition, "pop-up" events at various community gatherings and meetings have been held in the study area. Please visit the project website at www.Route59Study.org for study announcements, meeting updates, or to submit your ideas or comments on how to improve Route 59.

We hope to see you there!

About the Study

The area surrounding Route 59 includes a mix of land uses, with large retail centers as well as commercial and residential sites and a significant pedestrian presence. The travel markets that move within and through the area are complex, being a mixture of regional and local person and goods movement and modes including truck, bus, car, pedestrian and bicycle. The Route 59 Area Transportation & Land Use Study will identify and evaluate transportation and development issues and future scenarios in the Route 59 corridor. You can learn more about the Route 59 Area Transportation & Land Use Study* by visiting www.Route59Study.org.

Your Voice Counts

NYMTC is inviting those who use Route 59, those who live in and around the corridor, property and business owners, community groups, elected officials, and other public representatives to help develop the future vision of Route 59 and its communities.
